The James H.W. Thompson Foundation has been welcoming the public to the Jim Thompson House and Museum since 1976. The Jim Thompson House and Museum is now enjoyed by over 220,000 people each year with guided tours provided in Thai, English, Japanese, Chinese and French. The Foundation is committed to ensuring that future generations will also be able to enjoy and appreciate the artistic and cultural legacy of Jim Thompson. Employing dedicated conservation professionals the Foundation also works closely with experienced restoration specialists as part of a comprehensive and ongoing conservation program for both the house itself and the collections contained within.

Guided by its founding principles of promoting awareness, understanding and appreciation of Thai art and culture, in 2003, The James H.W. Thompson Foundation further established the Jim Thompson Art Center to nurture artistic and creative activities focusing on both traditional and contemporary art, textiles and multi-disciplinary works within today's context. Over the past 12 years, the Art Center has organized more than 30 extensive exhibitions of contemporary and traditional art, conducted various educational programs and collaborated with many local and international art organizations to convene symposiums, seminars, workshops and special events.

The James H.W. Thompson Foundation is a non-profit organization and relies entirely on its own funding. To enable the Foundation to continue to fund its activities the entrance fee for the Jim Thompson House and Museum will be increased on June 15, 2015.

The new entrance fee will be
